BATTLING NELSON.
It irks Bat to so Weish attle.

It irks Bat to see Welsh still collecting the coin, by virtue of deftis avoiding decision fights and wallop that would separate him from his title. Looking over the record of Fready Weish since he won the championship from Ritchie in England on an English decision, and comparing it with the feats of Battling Nelson after becoming champion, its no wonder Bat feels peeved. Weish has dodged a meeting with the man ho took the title from, except a decisionless ten rounds in which he was whipped from start to finish, and has played it safe by confining his ring efforts to sprinting matches in which there being no decisions, he coulds't lose unless the other fellow caught him. Nelson won the championship from the great Joe Gans, and turned around and fought Gans and knocked him edit again with weish in Havana last spring. Bat went to Havana and fought down from Philadelphia to fight him. Knocked down and well hammered in the first round, Bat came back an fought with increasing fury through to the end of the twenty-fifth, winning a fight in which be at first looked a sure loser.

Where on earth old Bat got the stamina for the marvellous fight he put up I can't imagine. I believe he would surely have whipped Welsh that night. Whether he could do it nine months later—or next Christman—is another question. But no doubt Welsh has gone back as much as Nelson. His last few ten-round fights here didn't show promise of much stamina for a long bout.

Of course it seems an absurd thing that an old retired champion like Bat Nelson, who went through more militing in his time than any other fighter in the land, and who has been practically out of the ring for years, could again win a world's championship title. But if he did it! Wow! That would be something worth writing about.

Congressman Murray Hulbert and Congressman Murray Hulbert and John T. Dooling defended Kiviat on the first night of the trial, and both claim that the Registration Committee acted illegally in calling the second hearing on last Thursday instead of Saturday. Mr. Dooling asserted that he could not possibly attend on Thursday on adcount of law business, and wanted the case put back until Saturday, but this the Registration Committee did not do.

He was outpunted by Barrett and Shiverick, his wonderful speed only netted a few short gains and his costly fumbles made possible Cornell's touchdown. When Mahan slumped the entire Crimson machine weakened and Ithaca's eleven only had to play safe to retain its advantage.

Fine Showing of Nassau Team Against Dartmouth Doesn't Leave Much Hope for the Crimson and Yale Adhertage.

Cornell works meet on the griding for these two teams now have the best chance of winning the football championship this year. There's a growing belief that this is Princeton's year; that the Tigers will come through in both the Harvard and Yale battles.

Cornell, after the decisive victory over the Crimson, is practically certain of winning its remaining big games with Michigan and Penn. Then the only means of determining the strength of both elevens will be a comparison of scores Princeton and Cornell made and built it wasn't because any headway against the parent team in the got off low drives, so wonderfully placed that the bail, after a long roil, sharpe has been head coach at Ithaca the's been gradually rounding the big Red and White team into a machine and building for the future. There's been marked improvement in Cornell elevens the last three years. The Ithacan team was so powerful this season that Cornell men freely predicted a victory over Harvard last week.
